Kenneys lead the way at Mud Bay

OLYMPIA, Wash.— Clark and Clara Kenney went undefeated over the weekend to win the mixed doubles tournament at the Mud Bay Tavern.

Twenty teams took part in the tournament.

The Keeneys, who took a long break from shuffleboard after being two of the top players in the Pacific Northwest for years, won their first tournament since returning to competition a little more than a year ago.

Donald and Ruby Mitchell claimed second place. It was Ruby's highest tournament finish and she credited her Pacific Northwest Hall of Fame husband with helping to accomplish the fete.

Loren Lampley-Paulette McKinney finished in third place as

It might not be recognizable to anyone else, but today marks the first anniversary of publication lagging4s, the ezine of table shuffleboard.

A year ago today the first edition hit the street, promising to be a once-a-month publication going to readers via email.

Some scoffed. At the idea, at the need when there already was a monthly print publication and at me, a guy not afraid to express my points of view about shuffleboard.

About 100 people got that first edition as I searched for email addresses of shuffleboard players.

Some said “no thanks” after that first edition. Their loyalty was to the print publication. I applauded and continue to cheer that loyalty because I knew if they ever became lagging4s readers they'd be with the magazine forever.

Circulation grew to 300 and then to 500 as people started to see the value of lagging4s.

I tried to make sure there was something for everyone.

A list of places to play shuffleboard grew and grew after hours of computer searches. It tops 500 this week. Readers also contributed heavily to this list of places to play.

One of the things I wanted to include in lagging4s was more literature. I wrote a couple of pieces, used a story from a college student about Friday night meat shoots and added a nice story about legend Billy Mays written by Carlton Stowers of Texas. In addition, Robert Hoffman contributed a piece about one of the stalwarts of the game.

You added to the fare by sending tournament results and stories from tournaments across the country.

Robert Davidson from Pacific Coast Shuffleboard News, offered a partnership in sharing information that has worked out well. Maybe better for lagging4s.

The highlight of the year was a trip to the North American Shuffleboard Championships in Reno, Nev. We had pleasure to see John McDermott inducted into the National Shuffleboard Hall of Fame and we were able to publish the magazine almost daily as results warranted.

Hopefully, the next year will be as exciting and successful.

The magazine is emailed to nearly 600 people weekly and far more than that read lagging 4s. There is never a subscription fee for the magazine. All you have to do to receive it is send your email address to laggin4s@olympus.net.

Remember, your words about shuffleboard are always welcome as we strive to have more than just results in the magazine.

Tournament results

Lampley works on his comeback to the game.

Mike Waters-Judy George finished fourth while Gary George-Junell Schrum and Rob Haidel-Hazel Thorpe shared fifth and sixth.

Paulette McKinney and Gary George won the Friday night draw over 12 other teams. Don Mitchell-Bob VonBargen were second with Fred Johns-Mel Hohn finishing in third.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ratings have brought more players into the game

I just wanted to respond on the letter in the April 20 issue about the ratings from Anonymous, you may feel I have rambled on for too long but here it is: First off, the job of the RATER is to only rate players they have seen play and their strategy that effects the outcome of the game. I am sure we have Rater's out there that do under-rate or even make adjustments to a players rating that they shouldn't - no system is without faults. Word of mouth about a players abilities will always enter the equation. In other words for a rater in Detroit to comment on my rating would be wrong unless he/she had watched me play. Now, Jim Payne of Indiana could comment on my rating because we have played against each other in several tournaments and he has the personal knowledge on my ability or lack of. If you have a rater in a area that is missing rating people, I would suggest you plan a meeting to set down and discuss player ratings. Raters have several weeks once they receive their paper work before they are to return the results. As for your suggested changes, they make no sense and would cause more people to drop out because of how they would be rated. Have you ever played a game where just the right "Shit-Shot" let the underdog win the game. In shuffleboard we don't call our shots! Lets say the score is 13 to 11 my favor & my hammer, you shot to combo off my three that is just barely open from the deuce you just missed - game on the board right! Oh no, dumb luck has it that your weight missing the combo completely, goes in and sticks the three, rolls to a four covered by my deuce and some other stray weight on the table. No way can I now make the same miracle shot and now you win. With your suggestion, this might be the win that moves you to a One Rated player.

Are you now a (1) rated player or did you just get lucky?

People do get moved to soon and others don't seem to move at all - but then again let the raters know your watching. The system we have works great and has kept many weaker players from walking away from the game. Tournament directors have the option to use or not to use the "Bowers System" or make rating adjustments if they see fit. The Full House in Wynnewood Okla., does just that! You may be rated a (3) in the Bowers, and they will make you play as a (2) or you don't play - this is a very Fair way to handle the situation. Several times a vote determined how a player would be rated for the tournament. Yes, we could have more rules on how to rate, but by far it has improved the number of players playing the game. If it has hurt the game in your area, stop using the ratings and play straight up - I would rather play against a pro with no spot and beat him/her straight up than with a handicap

Gary Nelson

To My Fellow Shuffleboard Friends, I want to thank each and every one of you for the cards and letters sent to me during my hospital stay. They meant a lot to me and really made my days brighter. I still take them out and read them. I am finally home after 58 days in the hospital. I am feeling fine. I am using a walker and doing exercises to get my strength back. I hope to see you all soon. Again, thank you all so very much. Love you guys
